- Labelling all personal items: From 29 October, clothing and any other items that are unlabelled, including bed linen, will be confiscated and returned to parents. This is a tough stance, but its purpose is to save parents money and promote responsibility and discipline in students.

- ManageBac (MB) and Naviance: If you have any difficulties registering or logging in, please email Ken (principal@tis.edu.gh)

Last Chance

- For the past three years, TIS has hosted the annual Creative Writing and Photography Workshop over two days. This year it will be held from 20 – 21 October. It is one of those essential experiences for students wishing to develop or enhance their writing or photography skills. Please contact Miss Irene for further details: Irene.Koree@tis.edu.gh

- TIS hosts MUN this year from 23-25 October. Again, it's an essential experience for students who develop and demonstrate their persuasive writing, public speaking and leadership skills. The local experience is the perfect forerunner to the annual international experiences that take place in second semester. Please contact Mrs Adelaide for further details: aferguson@tis.edu.gh

Parent Information Session

A Parent Information Session on next Thursday, 19 October, will conclude this mid-semester. This session is scheduled from 1.30-4.00pm in the MPH, and it will be an opportunity for parents to:

- find out more about individual subjects your son/daughter is studying;
- meet individual subject teachers;
- discuss general questions with individual teachers, counselors, hostel parents and program coordinators; and
- get assistance with MB access.

Parents may depart with their son(s)/daughter(s) for the mid-semester break once their involvement in the Parent Information Session has concluded.

Students whose parents are not attending the Parent Information Session may depart from 4.00pm.

Students who are attending the Creative Writing and Photography Workshop can be collected on Saturday afternoon.

MYP Corner

STOMP and Grade 7

I mentioned before how much our students amaze me when it comes to performing and the high standard of their performances.

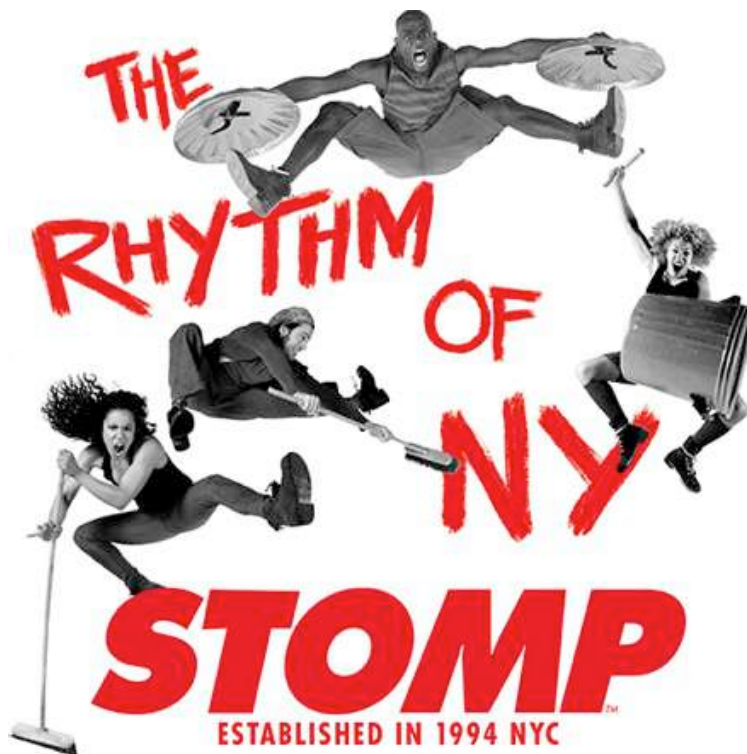

When discussing the development of a new MYP music curriculum with Mr. Emmanuel, the music teacher for Grades 7 & 8, I stressed my desire for music classes for all. How much I wish that all students would, or would be willing to play an instrument. I also know that this is not always the case. We all have different interests and we have to respect this. With the four criteria in MYP music, one is able to get a good final grade even without playing an instrument, as long as we develop a curriculum that really allows for this.

In a previous newsletter you saw a bit of Grade 7 rehearsing already. This week again I watched them rehearse towards their final performance. It was a joy to witness and I was as proud of them as Emmanuel clearly was. It all goes back to the show of STOMP (<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=fN5T8y8bCJ4>) where random object is used as percussion “instrument” including their own bodies. What a great way to show what one can do with rhythm. This unit has been a perfect way for all students to practise and perform rhythm in a fun and exciting way. This is what education is about, inquiring students who are not afraid to take risks.

Back to top

To add another layer of risk-taking we have asked them to perform on stage during one of our weekly assemblies. Assemblies should be celebrations of learning where the students show what they have been working on over the weeks. I’m sure that they will shine as real performers! Enjoy the video, it’s a full length.

The Best Way to Hold a Pizza Slice Was Taught by a 19th Century Math Genius

Behind the pizza trick lies a powerful mathematical result about curved surfaces. Its discoverer, the mathematical genius Carl Friedrich Gauss, named it Theorema Egregium.

Why does bending a pizza slice help you eat it? Dig in to the math of the 'fold hold'. Credit: Author provided

We've all been there. You pick up a slice of pizza and you're about to take a bite, but it flops over and dangles limply from your fingers instead. The crust isn't stiff enough to support the weight of the slice. Maybe you should have gone for fewer toppings. But there's no need to despair, for years of pizza eating experience have taught you how to deal with this situation. Just fold the pizza slice into a U shape (aka the fold hold). This keeps the slice from flopping over, and you can proceed to enjoy your meal. (If you don't have a slice of pizza handy, you can try this out with a sheet of paper.)

Dennis Mensah Akortah- Francis Hostel Parent of the Week!

Name: Dennis Mensah Akortah

Fun Fact: I like to count in multiples of three.

Roles: ITGS/ICT Teacher, Francis Hostel Parent, Content Manager for school website, Supervisor of Audio-Visual team and Advisor (Photography Club)

Key Word(s) in life: Perseverance, consistency and reflective

Hobbies: Reading, watching movies, listening to music and public speaking.

Favorite Quote: Everything we say and do has implications.

What excites you: There is a quote that says, “A man’s greatness is measured by the number of lives he touches”. I am overwhelmed with satisfaction whenever I am able to be of help to people no matter the magnitude of assistance especially when I see the good seeds I have helped sow in their lives yielding fruits. This always gladdens my heart.

Experience at the hostel: Being a hostel parent has helped me get to know our students better. It gives me a holistic view of their personality. I have learnt what makes each of them unique. This has helped me know how to relate to them. As they go through the various phases of adolescence with its numerous challenges, I am happy to be a voice of reason. I feel fulfilled when I am of assistance to the boys. The fact that they see me as a source of direction and support gives me a lot of joy. Though we occasionally have different views on issues, it offers a learning moment for them and myself. It is always interesting when they experience an “Aha!” moment from our interactions.

Qualitative analysis is very important to industrial quality control chemists to maintain product quality and the forensic chemist who is interested in solving crimes. Grade 8 Science students conducted analysis to determine the ionic composition of some medicinal tablets. This was to help them understand the relationship between what they learn in class and its application in daily life activities.

Reflections

We did 3 tests today. We crushed 4 different medicinal tablets and tested them for cations and anions. I really enjoyed this experience and I'm looking forward to the next time.

~Maame Dankwa Afranie-Adjei

On Thursday Grade 8B had a practical on cations and anions and I was in a group with Caleb and I was scared because of the chemicals and fire. However, my partner and I collaborated. We put our differences aside and worked together. This was a nice practical because although it was to educate us, my team working skills became better.

Korle-Bu Teaching Hospital Burns Center Presentation

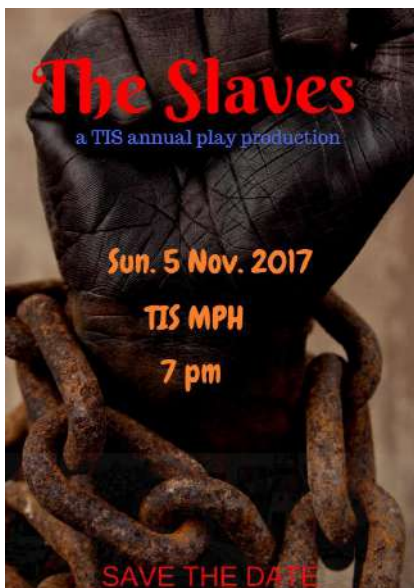

Last semester G12s organized the annual events “Chocolate Friendship Day” dubbed Hearts on Fire and “Expression 17” dubbed Unmasking the Mask. The purpose of these events was to raise funds to purchase medical supplies to support the burns center at Korle-Bu Teaching hospital. We are proud to inform you that our students were able to raise the amount of GHC 8,615.00.

TIS students and staff were greatly saddened by the Fire Outbreak at the Labadi Gas Station. With the recent Gas Explosion at the Atomic Junction in Madina, it has become urgent and a matter of concern to make these donations to the aforementioned hospital.

To fulfill our commitment to this cause a group of G12 and G11 students are organizing a visit to Korle-bu Teaching Hospital during Mid Semester break. They intend to visit the victims and present the items to the Burns Center team.

Last Monday, during Assembly a minute of silence was observed in honour of the victims of the fire outbreaks. Our students are concerned about the safety this fueling stations brings to the community.
